The Untouchables Season 2, Volume 2 Thirty years before they hit the big screen via Brian DePalma's brilliant movie adaptation, Eliot Ness's legendary exploits came to life in the classic 1950s and '60s television series The Untouchables. Created by veteran crime-drama producer Quinn Martin, the series followed Ness (Robert Stack) and his team of crack crimefighters—including agents Martin Flaherty (Jerry Paris), Jack Rossman (Steve London), Enrico Rossi (Nicholas Georgiade), and William Youngellow (Abel Fernandez)—as they took on the Mafia underworld of gangsters Al Capone (Neville Brand) and Frank Nitti (Bruce Gordon) in Prohibition-era Chicago. Smart and iconic, the series distinguished itself with superb voiceover narration from broadcaster Walter Winchell and a gritty style that nonetheless eschewed graphic depictions of gore and violence. This collection presents the second half of the impetus for 16 episodes, with guest stars such as Ricardo Montalban, George Kennedy, Telly Savalas, Lee Marvin and Joan Blondell. Volume 2's second season. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "Augie 'The Banker' Ciampino," "The Underground Court," "The Nick Moses Story" and "The Antidote." Additional Actors: Harry Dean Stanton, Telly Savalas, Sam Jaffe, Rebecca Welles, Keenan Wynn, Bruce Gordon, Michael Constantine, John Mitchum. Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "The Lily Dallas Story," "Murder Under Glass," "Testimony of Evil" and "Ring of Terror." Additional Actors: June Vincent, Larry Parks, Dabbs Greer, Frank Wilcox, Howard Crane. Disc 3 includes the following episodes: "Mr. Moon," "Death for Sale," "Stranglehold" and "The Nero Rankin Story." Additional Actors: Ricardo Montalban, Karl Swenson, James MacArthur, Frank Puglia. Disc 4 includes the following episodes: "The Seventh Vote," "The King of Champagne," "The Nick Acropolis Story" and "90-Proof Dame." Additional Actors: George Kennedy, Lee Marvin, Constance Ford, Robert Cornthwaite, Richard Reeves, Johnny Seven, Steven Geray, Joanna Barnes. Paramount/CBS

Young at Heart Get ready to rock out with the most entertaining "golden oldies" you will ever meet, a fun-loving senior citizen's choir called Young at Heart. To prepare for a show in their hometown that is only weeks away, the lovable seniors must learn a slate of new songs, ranging from James Brown to Coldplay. The chorus' tireless musical director leads the group through a series of hilariously chaotic rehearsals, proving that hard rock can be hard work - especially when you're hard of hearing! Climaxing in a triumphant performance that will leave you cheering, their inspiring story celebrates the unbreakable bonds of friendship and the life-affirming power of music! Fox

Transformers Animated Season One In Transformers Season One, the Autobots swear to protect the Allspark, their adopted new home Earth, and an 8-year old girl named Sari Sumdac, who not only becomes an honorary Autobot, but also a vital component of the team and the keeper of The Key, which serves an emergency power supply and healing source for the Autobots. While Optimus Prime and his team of Autobots are out fighting Earth-bound super villains and basking in their newfound superhero status the real threat, the Decepticons, are out there regrouping, preparing to return with a vengeance and will stop at nothing to get their hands on the Allspark and The Key. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "Home Is Where the Spark Is," "Total Meltdown," "Blast From the Past," "Thrill of the Hunt," "Nanosec," "Along Came a Spider" and "Sound and Fury." Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "Lost and Found," "Survival of the Fittest," "Headmaster," "Nature Calls," "Megatron Rising Part One" and "Megatron Rising Part Two." Paramount

South Park 11th Season What began as a construction-paper film short evolved into a veritable pop-culture phenomenon for Trey Parker and Matt Stone's outrageous animated comedy series, South Park. Centered on the hilarious misadventures of four potty-mouthed grade-schoolers in the perpetually wintry environs of South Park, Colorado, the series skewers the vagaries of the modern American cultural landscape with politically incorrect humor and satirical plotlines ranging from homophobia and terrorism to boy bands and talking poo. In the 11th season of the wildly popular and outrageously raunchy Comedy Central animated series, the potty-mouthed pals return for more adventures. Randy faces an angry community after he accidentally utters a racial slur on "Wheel of Fortune," Butters is sent to a camp where he can "pray the gay away" when his dad suspects he's sexually curious, Ms. Garrison takes out her romantic failures on the class, and Hillary Clinton comes to South Park. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "With Apologize to Jesse Jackson," "Cartman Sucks," "Lice Capades," "The Snuke" and "Fantastic Easter Special." Additional Actors: April Stewart, Adrien Beard, B.J. McCrory, Kyle McCulloch, Jennifer Howell, Paula Holmberg, Eric Stough. Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "D-Yikes," "Night of the Living Homeless," "Le Petite Tourette" and "More Crap." Additional Actors: Paula Holmberg, April Stewart, Bobby Peer, Juan Kimmelin. Disc 3 includes the following episodes: "Imaginationland: Episode I," "Imaginationland: Episode II," "Imaginationland: Episode III," "Guitar Queer-O" and "The List." Additional Actors: Adrien Beard, Katharine Howell, Juan Kimmelin, April Stewart, Kyle McCulloch, Jennifer Howell, Paula Holmberg, Jessie Thomas. Paramount

NCIS: 5th Season Taking viewers behind the sealed doors of the military, NCIS follows the workings of investigators at the Naval Criminal Investigative Service. Led by the wise Special Agent Leroy Jethro Gibbs (Mark Harmon), a crack investigator with no qualms about bending the rules to find his answers, the team takes on cases involving terrorism, murder, espionage, and international arms smuggling. Gibbs is aided by homicide detective Anthony D'Inozzo (Michael Weatherly), forensic scientist Abby Sciuto (Pauley Perrette), medical examiner Dr. Donald "Ducky" Mallard (David McCallum), computer expert Timothy McGee (Sean Murray), and department head Jennifer Shepard (Lauren Holly). As Season 5 of this popular drama opens, Special Agent Jethro Gibbs (Mark Harmon) is leading the Naval Criminal Investigative Service in what they hope will be a final showdown with a notorious arms dealer (Armand Assante). In other action, the elite group that operates independently of the military continues to unravel crimes involving murder, espionage, terrorism and more. Lauren Holly, Sean Murray and David McCallum co-star. This collection presents the series' fifth season, including a shocking season finale that is sure to shake up the unit. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "Bury Your Dead," "Family," "Ex-File" and "Identity Crisis." Additional Actors: Armand Assante, Scottie Thompson, Nick Searcy, Margaret Easley, Kathleen York, Robin Dunne, Brian Dietzen, Joe Spano. Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "Leap of Faith," "Chimera," "Requiem" and "Designated Target." Additional Actors: Brian Dietzen, Titus Welliver, Steven Culp, Graham McTavish, Darby Stanchfield, Stelio Savante, Xolile Tshavalala. Disc 3 includes the following episodes: "Lost & Found," "Corporal Punishment," "Tribes" and "Stakeout." Additional Actors: Dominic Scott Kay, Paul Telfer, Shaun Toub, Susan Kelechi Watson. Add NCIS: Season 5: Disc 4 includes the following episodes: "Dog Tags," "Internal Affairs," "In the Zone" and "Recoil." Additional Actors: Rachel Kimsey, Brian Gross, Rocky Carroll, Joe Spano, Aleene Khoury, Michael Hagerty, Steve Kazee. Disc 5 includes the following episodes: "About Face," "Judgement Day: Part 1" and "Judgement Day: Part 2." Additional Actors: Brian Dietzen, Rocky Carroll, Reginald James, Muse Watson, Oleg Taktarov. Paramount/CBS

Everybody Hates Chris 3rd Season Comedian Chris Rock parleys his real-life childhood experiences into an endearingly family-friendly coming-of-age sitcom with the popular and critically acclaimed Everybody Hates Chris. Set in 1980s Bed-Stuy, Brooklyn (where Rock himself grew up), the series follows teenage Chris (Tyler James Williams) as his efforts at being cool are constantly stifled by his penny-pinching father, Julius (former NFL player Terry Crews); overprotective mother, Rochelle and annoying younger siblings, Drew (Tequan Richmond) and Tanya (Imani Hakim). To make matters worse, Chris is forced to attend an all-white school where his only friend is an equally hapless white boy, Greg (Vincent Martella), ensuring that his peer interactions are just as exasperating as his befuddled, yet loving, family life. Rock himself provides the voiceover narration, while period-piece detail and an impeccable soul soundtrack add authentic '80s nostalgia. Whether you call it an African-American Wonder Years or a working-class Cosby Show, Everybody Hates Chris is funny, creative, clever, and full of heart—and one of the best television series to come around in quite a while. This collection presents the series' third season. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "The Guidance Counselor," "Caruso," "Driving," "Blackie," "The Bachelor Pad" and "Bed-Stuy." Additional Actors: J.B. Smoove, Jeris Lee Poindexter, Travis Flory, Marcel Lam, Jacqueline Mazarella, Keontay Jackson, Ernest Thomas, Todd Bridges, Paige Hurd, P.J. Marino, Antonio Fargas. Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "Houseguests," "Minimum Wage," "The New Kid," "Kwanzaa," "The Port Authority" and "Bad Boys." Additional Actors: Wayne Brady, Jimmie Walker, Phylicia Rashad, Tommy Davidson, Aaron Grady, Tasia Sherel, Kwame Boateng, Jackee Harry, Paige Hurd. Disc 3 includes the following episodes: "The First Kiss," "Easter," "Gretzky," "The BFD" and "Ex-Cons." Additional Actors: Anna Maria Horsford, Paige Hurd, Shar Jackson, Rockmund Dunbar. Disc 4 includes the following episodes: "Earth Day," "Being Cool," "The 9th Grade Dance," "Mother's Day" and "Graduation." Additional Actors: Mike Estime, Todd Bridges, Brian

The Office Season 4 In the hilarious and cringe-worthy fourth season of The Office, Ryan "The Temp" Howard (B.J. Novak) moves up to the Dunder Mifflin corporate headquarters, sweethearts Pam (Jenna Fischer) and Jim (John Krasinski) go public with their long-awaited romantic relationship, and Dwight (Rainn Wilson), salesman geek extraordinaire, bristles as his ex-girlfriend, Angela (Angela Martin), is wooed away by the obnoxious Andy (Ed Helms). Of course, overseeing it all is self-proclaimed "World's Greatest Boss," Michael Scott, played by Steve Carell with a terrific obliviousness that rings painfully true to cubicle dwellers everywhere. Fresh from an Emmy win for Outstanding Comedy Series, the 2007-08 season of the workplace mockumentary delves even further into the tedium of daily office life, including the company's struggle to enter the "digital age," the production of a local TV commercial, and the constant threat of a bored-employee insurrection. This volume also follows Michael's out-of-control relationship with the increasingly unstable Jan (Melora Hardin), culminating in a bitterly hysterical dinner party that many in the office are forced to endure. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "Fun Run," "Dunder Mifflin Infinity" and "Launch Party." Additional Actors: Rashida Jones, Bobby Ray Shafer, Jackie Debatin. Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "Money," "Local Ad," "Branch Wars" and "Survivor Man." Additional Actors: Andy Buckley, Jeff Witzke, Tim Kang. Disc 3 includes the following episodes: "The Deposition," "Dinner Party," "The Chair Model" and "Night Out." Additional Actors: Brooke Dillman, Terrence Beator, Sean Bury. Disc 4 includes the following episodes: "Did I Stutter," "Job Fair" and "Goodbye, Toby." Additional Actors: Phil Reeves, Amy Ryan, Emerson Brooks. Universal

The Scorpion King 2 Rise of a Warrior Uncovers the origins of the 2002 summer blockbuster which starred Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson as Mathayus, the most fearsome desert warrior of the ancient world. Reaching deep into the past, this prequel begins with the king as a 13-year-old peasant boy (Michael Copon) who witnesses the kidnapping and death of his father at the hands of the terrifying Sargon (played by towering UFC Heavyweight Randy Couture). Thirsty for vengeance, young Mathayus trains at the Order of the Black Scorpion to sharpen his skills as a killing machine, then journeys to the underworld to retrieve the one sword that can help him defeat Sargon. When the burgeoning Scorpion King finally comes to blows with his murderous rival, the fate of the entire human race hangs in the balance. Universal

Brotherhood of the Wolf Is a wild mix of martial arts, horror, and French period drama. Grégoire de Fronsac (Samuel Le Bihan), a charming naturalist and libertine, arrives in Gevaudan with his companion, Mani (Mark Dacascos), a taciturn Mohawk Iroquois Indian with amazing fighting skills. Fronsac has been sent by the king to investigate a mysterious beast that is slaughtering women and children across the countryside. The local gentry include the friendly Marquis Thomas D'Apcher (Jérémie Rénier), Jean-François de Morangias (Vincent Cassel), a one-armed adventurer with a suspicious nature, and his beautiful sister, Marianne. Though Fronsac is immediately attracted to Marianne, he still finds time to visit Sylvia (Monica Bellucci), a mysterious prostitute with a penchant for sharp objects. Fronsac and Mani quickly realize that the killer is not a wolf, but something bigger and far more deadly. As they attempt to track the beast, they encounter unexpected resistance from the locals, and find themselves in grave danger. Universal

Heroes Season 2 The dramatic twists in the fates of Heroes' super-powered everymen continue in this peril-packed second season. Volume two begins four months after the Emmy Award-nominated first season's explosive finale, just as the heroes are struggling, once again, to adapt to normal existence. Claire, an invincible cheerleader, and her mysterious guardian Noah (Jack Coleman) have adopted new identities and a different hometown. Peter, a man with the power to mimic others' paranormal abilities, his politician brother, Nathan, a telepathic cop, each attempt to put the pieces of their lives together in the wake of recent sacrifices, while the omnipotent villain Sylar schemes to regain his evil powers. Meanwhile, the beloved Hiro uses his time-traveling abilities to seek his destiny in feudal Japan. Despite their initial separation, the beleaguered group is soon drawn back together to stop a virus that threatens the planet's safety. After a riveting first-season cliffhanger, Season 2 of this top-rated drama finds Hiro transported to 17th-century Japan and surrounded by samurai warriors just in time for a solar eclipse. Can he fight his way back to the 21st century? Sure to delight fans of the series, this second batch of episodes brings an abundance of new discoveries, new villains and a new strain of emerging superheroes. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "Four Months Later," "Lizards" and "Kindred." Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "The Kindness of Strangers," "Fight or Flight" and "The Line." Disc 3 includes the following episodes: "Out of Time," "Four Months Ago" and "Cautionary Tales." Disc 4 includes the following episodes: "Truth & Consequences" and "Powerless." Universal

Deception Marcel Langenegger makes his feature-film directorial debut with the aptly titled Deception, a film about secrets and lies. Jonathan McQuarry (Ewan McGregor) feels that life is passing him by. He completes short-term audits for a large firm, but doesn't really feel any connection to his employer and finds it difficult to make friends at his assignments since he's never there for long. Jonathan's circumstances change overnight when charming lawyer Wyatt Bose (Hugh Jackman) befriends him. In an instant, the shy accountant is playing doubles tennis with his new friend and beautiful women and visiting upscale clubs. Just as mild-mannered Jonathan is getting used to his new lifestyle, Wyatt leaves town on business. When Jonathan finds himself mistakenly in possession of Wyatt's cell phone, he also discovers a whole new world of anonymous sex in elite Manhattan hotels with powerful women known simply as "The List." But soon Jonathan is in over his head: he's the prime suspect when a woman goes missing, and the threat of extortion looms. This tale weaves an intricate web of lies and treachery. Fox

The Secret Soul mates Hannah (Lili Taylor) and Benjamin (David Duchovny) are very much in love and enjoy every part of their life together, even when it comes to raising their angst-ridden teenage daughter Samantha (Olivia Thirlby). When Hannah is killed in a car accident, however, this strong bond may be the cause of a terrifying twist, as her spirit overcomes and possesses Samantha's body. Left with the voice and heart of his wife in the body of his child, Benjamin must come to terms with all that he has lost, and all that he must painfully withhold. Based on a Japanese thriller, The Secret is a frightening drama that explores the mysterious connections of the living and the dead. Image Entertainment

The Color Honeymooners Collection 4 Jackie Gleason began hosting his long-running variety show, The Jackie Gleason Show, in 1952. His hilarious characters, comic monologues, and repartee with guests were an immediate hit with American audiences. Among his most popular characters was the know-it-all Ralph Cramden--so much so that Gleason eventually gave the pugnacious Brooklynite his own series, The Honeymooners. Jackie Gleason, Art Carney and company keep the laughs coming in the fourth and final season of this revamped edition of the iconic show. Departing from the practice of musicalizing old episodes, this season features all-new storylines. The Kramdens and Nortons visit Hawaii, Mexico and Mardi Gras, appear on "The Mike Douglas Show," try out computer dating, and welcome guest stars Bing Crosby, Donald O'Connor, Paul Lynde and Joey Heatherton. This collection presents 12 episodes from the last season of the show, also known as The Color Honeymooners. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "Play It Again, Norton," "Ralph Goes Hollywood," "Mexican Hat Trick" and "Case of the Cuckoo." Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "The Honeymoon is Over," "Happiness is a Rich Uncle," "Hawaii, Oh! Oh!" and "The Sun and Raccoon Capital." Disc 3 includes the following episodes: "The Match Game," "Double Trouble," "We're Off to See the Wizard" and "Operation Protest." MPI

Speed Racer Based on the 1960s Japanese-manga-derived animated TV series of the same name, Speed Racer follows the adventures of the title character (Emile Hirsch), a young race car driver who sits behind the wheel of the lightning-fast Mach 5 vehicle. Aided by his family, which includes Pops Racer (John Goodman) and Mom Racer (Susan Sarandon), and his devoted doe-eyed girlfriend, Trixie (Christina Ricci), Speed racks up victory after victory, but still lives in the shadow of his late older brother, Rex (Scott Porter), who died in a race. When Speed gamers the wrath of Royalton Industries, he must team up with the enigmatic Racer X (Matthew Fox) to defeat the ruthless corporation. Universal

Baby Mama Most romantic couples onscreen or otherwise--would kill for the type of chemistry that Tina Fey and Amy Poehler share in the gyno-centric comedy Baby Mama, even though the women are only playing friends. Fey stars as Kate, a 37-year-old vice president at an organic foods company whose womb starts a-kickin' every time she sees a baby. Though her career has kept her from marriage and children, she has decided that it's time for her to get pregnant. But multiple tries with in vitro fertilization leave her disappointed, and Kate turns to a surrogate mother. Enter Angie (Poehler), a high-school dropout desperate for the large check that comes with carrying someone's child. Though she agrees to be Kate's surrogate, it's clear that the women disagree on everything from music to the type of food Angie should be eating. When Angie leaves her apartment after a fight with her obnoxious common-law husband, she moves into Kate's posh Philadelphia apartment, and the women spend the rest of Baby Mama alternately battling and bonding. Steve Martin appears in a small but enjoyable role as Kate's oily boss, and Oscar nominee Greg Kinnear gets good mileage out of playing her love interest. Universal

Snow Angels Director David Gordon Green adds another carefully sculpted drama to his resume with Snow Angels. Green deposits a strong cast in a snowbound Pennsylvania town for his fourth full-length feature, which revolves around the troubled teenage life of young Arthur (Michael Angarano). Arthur divides his time between working at a Chinese restaurant and dealing with the break up of his parents. His endearing lack of self-confidence is tempered when new-girl-in-town Lila (Olivia Thirlby) shows a romantic interest in him. Meanwhile, Arthur's co-worker and former babysitter, Annie (Kate Beckinsale), is trying to raise her child alone after the failure of her marriage to the unhinged Glenn (Sam Rockwell). Annie also embarks on an unwise affair with Nate (Nicky Katt), who happens to be married to her best friend. Green's central characters try to make the best of their modest lives until a major incident, dropped halfway through the movie, raises the tension between Annie and Glenn to breaking point. Beckinsale, Rockwell, and Angarano all deliver consummate performances, and they are joined by a strong supporting cast that includes Griffin Dunne and a rare straight role for comedian Amy Sedaris. Green's style, so often compared to that of Terrence Malick, takes a slightly different turn here as the director delivers a relatively straightforward thriller. But the change suits him, and Snow Angels contains enough edge-of-your-seat tension to keep audiences curious as to where the director is going to take them. Warner

Kabluay Prendergast stars as Salman, a ne'er-do-well with no money and no place to live. He moves in with his sister-in-law, Leslie (Lisa Kudrow), promising to take care of her kids while she works; her husband (his brother), a member of the National Guard, is still in Iraq, his tour extended yet again. Unfortunately for Salman, his nephews, Lincoln (Landon Henninger) and Cameron (Cameron Wofford), are unholy, unstoppable terrors. Wanting him to get back on his own two feet, Leslie finds Salman a job at her very strange, hilariously absurd company, BlueNexion, where Salman must get inside a big blue costume and hand out flyers in the middle of a nearly deserted highway. But when he finds out a little too much about Leslie, he is put into an awkward situation that he's not sure he can get out of easily. Sony

Tortured Undercover FBI agent Jimmy Vaughn (Cole Hauser) is put to the ultimate test when he's ordered by a notorious crime boss to interrogate and torture a mob accountant (Laurence Fishburne) accused of stealing millions of dollars in dirty money. Nolan Lebovitz writes and directs this nail-biting thriller that features a stellar supporting cast, including James Cromwell, James Denton, Kevin James, Jon Cryer and Emmanuelle Chriqui. Sony

This American Life Public radio's award-winning This American Life makes a successful translation to television with this penetrating Showtime series. As with the radio program, Ira Glass hosts these themed episodes about the bizarre, inspiring, heartbreaking, and often hilarious lives of average Americans. The emphasis continues to be on the voices of people telling their stories in their own words; but the added visual element adds an important dimension to these tales that make the show much more than merely a retread of the radio version. This collection presents all six episodes of the first season of the show. Paramount

Criminal Minds Season 3 This popular show follows a group of FBI agents as they go inside the minds of vicious murderers. Tony Award-winner Joe Mantegna stars as David Rossi in this third season (replacing Mandy Patinkin), an original founder of the Behavioral Analysis Unit who returns to action as a profiler; in addition to Mantegna, Criminal Minds stars Thomas Gibson as the group's leader. Solving mysteries by delving into the psychology of serial killers and terrorists, each of the group's members are able to offer special insight into specific cases: Derek Morgan (Shemar Moore) helps to solve crimes of obsession; Penelope Garcia (Kirsten Vangsness) employs her computer skills to gather clues; and Spencer Reid (Matthew Gray Gubler) uses his considerable intelligence to crack cases, despite his substandard social skills. Offering insight into both real and fictional crimes, this show is an essential for drama devotees. This collection presents the complete third season. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "Doubt," "In Name and Blood," "Scared to Death" and "Children of the Dark." Additional Actors: Jayne Atkinson, Moira Squier, Cole Moira Price, Meredith Monroe, Gordon Clapp, Eddie Cibrian, Lucia Sullivan, Stephanie Erb. Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "Seven Seconds," "About Face," "Identity" and "Lucky." Additional Actors: Meredith Monroe, Cade Egan, Molly Baker, Jayne Atkinson, Andrew Kavovit, Michael O'Neill, Michael Cudlitz, Jim Beaver. The Life Before Her Eyes Based on the novel by Laura Kasischke, this powerful drama, starring Uma Thurman, unfolds in out-of-sequence flashbacks. Recklessly hedonistic teenager Diana (Evan Rachel Wood) and her best friend, a Christian virgin (Eva Amuri), come face to face with a machine-gun-wielding classmate one morning at school in a situation reminiscent of Columbine. Thurman plays the grown-up version of Diana, who has a perfect life in the same small town 15 years after the tragedy. On the anniversary of the shooting, unpleasant flashbacks haunt her as she takes her daughter to school, lectures on Gauguin to a bored art history class, and possibly spots her older professor husband out with a younger woman. As the events cohere and time collapses, one realizes nothing is certain and life renews and ends on a moment-by-moment basis. Magnolia

Medium - 4th Season Based on the book Don't Kiss Them Goodbye by real-life psychic investigator Allison DuBois, NBC's popular television series Medium blends crime-drama with the supernatural for a smart and chilling spin on the detective genre. Patricia Arquette stars as a fictionalized version of DuBois, a family woman and aspiring lawyer who has been haunted all her life by strange visions and dreams. When she realizes she has the capacity to communicate with the dead, Allison puts her unique skills to work for a sympathetic district attorney (Miguel Sandoval) while depending on her husband (Jake Weber) and two daughters (Sofia Vassilieva and Maria Lark) for moral support. In this fourth season, Allison's extraordinary powers are revealed to the public, causing catastrophic repercussions for herself and her family. Meanwhile, Anjelica Huston guest stars as a private investigator who makes a strange deal with Allison in exchange for her skills. Includes the following episodes: "And Then," "But For The Grace of God," "To Have and To Hold" and "Do You Hear What I Hear." Additional Actors: Tina DiJoseph, Miranda Carabello, Anjelica Huston, Hollister Coleman, Jennifer Lawrence, Gabriel Olds. Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "Girls Ain't Nothing But Trouble," "Aftertaste," "Burn Baby Burn: Part 1" and "Burn Baby Burn: Part 2." Additional Actors: Conor O'Farrell, Miranda Carabello, William Sadler, Gregory Itzin, Roger Aaron Brown, John Prosky, Anjelica Huston. Disc 3 includes the following episodes: "Wicked Game: Part 1," "Wicked Game: Part 2," "Lady Killer" and "Partners In Crime." Additional Actors: Anjelica Huston, Sarah Drew, Susan Goodwillie, Miranda Carabello, John Prosky, Julieta Ortiz, Zak Lee. Disc 4 includes the following episodes: "A Cure For What Ails You," "Car Trouble," "Being Joey Carmichael" and "Drowned World." Additional Actors: Miranda Carabello, Tina DiJoseph, John Prosky, Serena Reeder, Kelly Preston, Neil Schwary, Tim Monsion, Michael McShae. Paramount

Star Trek Alternate Realities Collective Available for the first time on DVD is a collection featuring the bizarre and strange of episodes of Star Trek. See your favorite characters behaving contrary to type in familiar but odd circumstances in Star Trek: Alternate Realities, a 5-disc fan-collective that includes 20 episodes selected from all five Star Trek television series, plus exclusive special features.

From the exploring the vagaries of the holodeck to the mind-bending possibilities of parallel dimensions, Star Trek has long delighted its fans by warping the foundations of reality. Paramount I See You.com When a son installs tiny cameras around the house, he turns his family into an Internet sensation! His folks, and especially his hot 18-year-old sister, are fuming mad--that is, until they see the cash start rolling in. Beau Bridges and Rosanna Arquette star the parents in this sexy comedy that pushes reality TV to the limits. Warner

Outsourced When his department is outsourced to India, customer call center manager Todd Anderson (Josh Hamilton) heads to Mumbai to train his successor (Asif Basra). Amusing culture clashes soon ensue as Anderson tries to explain American business practices to the befuddled new employees -- and in the process learns some important lessons about globalization and life. Director John Jeffcoat's delightful comedy also stars Ayesha Dharker and Matt Smith. Porchlight

Blood Vision Morella's Graveyard Theater Three "bone chilling chillers" are included in this collection: Zombies (also known as I Eat Your Skin), The Blood Seekers and The Blood Stalkers. Each film is decidedly bad, but at least they're uniquely bad. The first (and oldest) film in the collection is Zombies, telling the story of an author/playboy who travels to a Caribbean island "so remote only one man knows its location" and discovers tribal sacrifices and a cover-up that can only be compared to an episode of Scooby Doo. There are actually a few decent scares here, mostly due to the black and white film masking much of the cheapness, and I actually think if this story was remade today with a little more money (and some better actors) it could have a chance to be legitimately frightening. The Blood Seekers is next, originally filmed in black and white and then tinted to look like it's in color, or what Morella calls, Super Spectra Chroma Color Vision. Our hostess is sure to remind us before this one starts that there are no refunds, and it's a good thing she does. This is easily the weakest film of the bunch, centering around a mysterious group of vampiric murders and a detective brought to the Philippines and hired to follow the clues and track down the killer. The final film, sans introduction by Morella for some reason, is Blood Stalkers, a slowly paced mixture between The Hills Have Eyes and House of 1,000 Corpses. The grainy color film helps provide ambience to the story, but there's not much plot to go on. A group of friends travels to a cabin in the Everglades to visit an old run-down cabin (and I do mean run-down) before being ambushed by a ragtag group of bumpkin thugs. The night scenes are hardly lit at all and the acting is pretty appalling, but there's something about the grittiness of the film that's endearing. Overall, this is the kind of collection that only diehard horror fans will really dive into. All three of these films feel like they should have a Mystery Science Theatre commentary track providing background humor to some of the more obviously silly plot points. It's an occasionally silly/ occasionally entertaining ride, but hey it's all tongue-in-cheek and you don't expect true horror when you buy a DVD that boasts "5 Hours Of Sleep Defying Thrills."

Fox Horror Classics Vol. 2 Chandu The Magician, Dragonwyck, Dr. Renault's Secret A set of certain other classic movie studio monsters has nothing on this clan from 20th Century Fox's golden era of fright. In Dragonwyck (1946), an 1800s woman agrees to live in a mysterious manor run by her charming but oddball cousin so that her daughter can receive a quality education there. Soon enough, however, she will discover the depths of the depravity contained within the walls of the prestigious Dragonwyck. In the 1942 creeper Dr. Renault's Secret, it seems a young fella has some romantic competition when he visits his fiancée in the French estate on which her scientist father conducts experimental research, only to find the good doctor's assistant has a thing for his soon-to-be wife. The question is: does the mysterious existence and odd behavior of this assistant have anything to do with Dr. Renault's experimentation with animals? Finally, Chandu The Magician (1932) tells the timeless story of a megalomaniac who holds a death ray inventor's family hostage so that he may adequately use the ray to destroy the plebian population of Earth. The world's last bastion of hope is the inventor's brother-in-law, the turban-toting illusionist Chandu. See all three of these amazing classics in one fell swoop. Fox

Charlie Chan Volume 1: Charlie Chan's Murder Cruise A Scotland Yard detective is murdered in Charlie Chan's (Sidney Toler) Honolulu office, and the famed sleuth believes the culprit is about to set sail for San Francisco. On board the ship, Chan finds himself juggling clues as four more bodies turn up. With the ship nearing port, Chan must find the killer before he can claim another victim and disembark into anonymity. Leo Carroll and Lionel Atwill co-star in this update of Chan's first adventure., Charlie Chan in Panama A fleet of Navy ships is headed for the Pacific, and a mysterious spy has threatened to blow up the Panama Canal and sabotage the maneuver. Enter Charlie Chan (Sidney Toler), incognito as an American government agent, to uncover the spy's identity. With many potential suspects among the locals and visitors, Chan races against time to stop the devious plan. This entry marked the Chan series' first foray into World War II-themed plots., Murder Over New York Murder follows legendary detective Charlie Chan (Sidney Toler) to the Big Apple, where he's attending a convention of police officers. Chan and "Number Two Son" Jimmy (Sen Yung) soon discover that this seemingly open-and-shut case is the work of enemy spies. Their target is an American bomber that's preparing for a test flight, and they'll kill anyone who tries to stop them from carrying out their sabotage. Shemp Howard makes a hilarious cameo., Charlie Chan at the Wax Museum Mobster Steve McBirney (Marc Lawrence) escapes from prison and goes on the warpath for Charlie Chan (Sidney Toler), who put him away. When Chan attends the opening of a new wax museum, he's unaware that McBirney is also there, waiting for him. One by one, Chan's fellow guests turn up dead, but the detective can't tell the real people from the uncanny wax imitations. The confusion leads to a twist ending that makes this a pinnacle of the series., Dead Men Tell Elderly Patience Nodbury literally dies of fright when she's visited by a ghostly buccaneer. Ace detective Charlie Chan (Sidney Toler) believes it's nothing supernatural, but a flesh-and-blood killer who's behind the murder. With an ancestral pirate captain's buried treasure up for grabs, everyone in the old woman's family is a suspect. Sen Yung is the detective's "Number Two Son" in this chilling entry in the Chan series., Charlie Chan in Rio A pair of murders stumps the Rio de Janeiro police. Fortunately, world-famous detective Charlie Chan (Sidney Toler) and "Number Two Son" Jimmy (Sen Yung) are vacationing in the city. The pair is as flummoxed as the police until they encounter a hypnotist (Victor Jory) linked to both deaths. A remake of the early Chan tale Black Camel, this lavish series entry co-stars that film's director, Hamilton MacFadden, Mary Beth Hughes and Harold Huber., Castle in the Desert When Professor Gleason (Lucien Littlefield) is murdered at a remote mansion in the Mojave Desert, fellow guests Charlie Chan (Sidney Toler) and "Number Two Son" Jimmy (Sen Yung) search for the killer. The suspects include their host (Douglass Dumbrille) and his wife (Lenita Lane), a descendant of the notorious Borgias. Poking around the estate, the Chans find poisons, a torture chamber and other means of doing in the couple's unsuspecting guests. Fox

Child's Play 20th Birthday Edition The Lake Shore Strangler, a mass murderer who has plagued the Chicago area for months, meets his Full Description untimely end when he gets shot in a toy warehouse. Left for dead, the killer summons the strength to recite a voodoo chant which causes his soul to be "reincarnated" into one of the dolls resting on the shelves. The incantation also sparks an unnatural lightning storm, and when lightning hits the warehouse, it burns to the ground. Only one doll survives: the doll possessed by the killer's soul. Later, a mother innocently buys this doll as a present for her son. At first, everything seems fine, but soon the doll starts communicating with the young boy. Then he slays the child's babysitter. That's only the first of his many gruesome exploits, however. So watch out... because just when you think Chucky's gone he might be coming back. MGM
